Watch The Secret of the Universe Coral Castle Video

Written by Jeremy | March 30, 2012 | 0

Here is the original and popular 'The Secret of the Universe' video originally published online towards the end of 2008.

The topic is on Coral Castle, The Freemasons, and the secrets used by many megalith builders of antiquity.

This video was the beginning of Code 144. Some additional notes are included at the end of the page.

Thanks to Jon DePew for his recognition of magnetism in sacred geometry. I draw on his discovery and claim that the Norman Hall in Philadelphia relates specifically to the megalithic building technology utilized by Edward Leedskalnin to build Coral Castle.

Noted inaccuracies

Since publishing the video, the following inaccuracies have been discovered:

- The object in the Seal of Solomon referenced as a bell is actually a Masonic Level, used for measuring horizontals.
- The ADM star begins with 0° at the top, and is 180° on the bottom. This is the opposite to what is shown towards the end of the video.
- Most of all, and perhaps not surprisingly, there is nothing easy or simple about this. The process is far more complex and detailed than perhaps has been implied here. It is best to think of this information as being relevant to part of the process, and admittedly it stands incomplete in this video.

The overwhelming bulk of the information, including the details on the numbers, remains valid.

I would also like to clarify that at no point does any stone physically get carried on top of the flywheel. Some have come away with this misunderstanding and it is the result of thinking through classical Newtonian laws – and of course we know now, and have known for a long time, that the universe is much more interesting than that.
